THIS WAS THE CLIMAX OF THE FOURTH ANNUAL Southwest Arkansas Poultry Festival Saturday night in Hammons Stadium — naming of the four princesses who will represent this area in the state finals at Little Rock.

LEFT TO RIGHT: DONNA YVONNE DIXON OF Benton, sponsored by Lehman Auto & Home Supply; Betty Jean Partin of North Little Rock, sponsored by Mountaire Poultry; Vonda Janice Jones of North Little Rock, Nashville Production Credit Association sponsor; and Shirley Ann Fulcher of Center Point, sponsored by Mountaire Poultry.

EIGHTEEN CONTESTANTS PARADED FIRST IN evening gowns, then in swim suits — in a show which Little Rock visitors who have toured the state pronounced the finest they had seen, certainly the best in the four-year history of the local district organization.

THE SPECTACULAR DRAWING CARD OF THIS year's show was Robert Taylor, motion picture and television star, who was brought to Hope by the Republican organization: Winthrop Rockefeller, state Republican National Committeeman; and Haskell Jones, Hempstead county chairman.

HERE MR. TAYLOR IS SHOWN ON THE grounds of Mrs. Freeda Greenan's home, where the Corn Belt Hatcheries president entertained celebrities at luncheon Saturday — with the four winners

THE COMBINATION OF A GREAT THEATRICAL star, a chorus line of beautiful girls, and a quartet of chicken cooks from the area that produced last year's Cooking Queen, was the magic that brought out a crowd of 4,000.

ning dishes: Mrs. Carter Russell (Baked Chicken); Mrs. Crit Stuart, Jr. (Chicken Breast); Mrs. Homer Jones (Herbed Chicken Betty); all of Hope; Mrs. Roe Sanders of Nashville (Stuffed Chicken Breast); and Bill Watson of Corn Belt Hatcheries, who introduced the winners to the crowd.

SW Poultry Festival Was a Great Success

The most successful of four Southwest Arkansas Poultry Festivals closed here Saturday night with the selection of four princess finalists. A crowd of over 6,000 lined Hope streets for the annual parade and 4,000 crammed into Hammond stadium for the princess contest.

The four finalists were Donna Yvonne Dixon of Benton, Betty Jean Partin of North Little Rock, Shirley Ann Fulcher of Center Point and Janice Jones of North Little Rock. They are now eligible to compete in the state contest with winners from three other Arkansas districts. Janice Carolyn Smith of Corning was selected the alternate.

It was a fine day for all. Activities really started rolling with the arrival at 1 a.m. of movie star Robert Taylor, Senator Thurston Morton (Rep.-Ky.) and prominent Arkansas Republican leader Winthrop Rockefeller.

The distinguished guests rode in the parade. This was followed by a reception on the City Hall lawn where the trio met and talked with local folks. Afterwards a press conference was held inside the City Hall. All three answered questions from the large audience, mostly about politics and views on internal and world affairs.

Other activities included the Chicken Cooking contest which was carried on throughout the day. The winners Mrs. Roe Sanders of Nashville, Mrs. Carter Russell, Mrs. Crit Stuart Jr. and Mrs. Homer Jones, all from Hope. They too will now compete in the statewide cookoff.

Hundreds of folks visited the Open House of the new Delight Egg Farm Depot and many also visited the Open House at the Production Credit Association office.

The serving of chicken dinners started at 5:30 p. m. at the school when 2,500 were passed out there were still many persons turned away. It was certainly the best of four festivals held here and all committees should be commended.

Congress to Be a Three Day Flurry

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate faces a three-day flurry of activity before closing down late Wednesday for an extended Memorial Day weekend. The pace in the House will be more leisurely.

An $840-million program dealing with the problems of mental illnesses and mental retardation heads the Senate's list today.

Democratic leaders said they knew of no strong opposition to the measure — a high-priority item on President Kennedy's 1963 program.

Up for Senate debate Tuesday will be the second of the regular money bills for the next fiscal year—a $985-million Interior Department appropriations measure.

Senate leaders plan to follow this with a must bill for this week—a stop-gap increase in the national debt limit to tide the Treasury over for the next few months.

The present $305-billion ceiling would be raised to $397 by the bill until June 30, and thereafter to $309 billion temporarily.

The House has a light schedule for the week. Its only announced business is a bill to extend the Mexican farm labor program for two years. The measure is to be considered Wednesday.

The mental illness bill would authorize federal grants to the states and to universities over the next 10 years.

The money could be used to help build community health centers.

Fitch May Head New Commission

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Rolla Fitch, director of the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board, may become director of the new Arkansas Livestock and Poultry Commission.

Fitch said Saturday that he and Gov. Orval E. Faubus had discussed the change, but had made no definite plans. However, Fitch said the change could take place June 1.

Dr. David Isen, a veterinarian, is serving as acting director of the commission, which was created by the 1963 legislature.

Fitch owns a farm in Madison County.

Delay Cannot Be Indefinite, Court Rules

By PAUL M. YOST

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court declared unanimously today that its 1955 decision that public schools must be desegregated with all deliberate speed does not mean that there can be indefinite delay in elimination of racial barriers.

The court's declaration was in an opinion written by Justice Goldberg in a decision which specifically called for immediate desegregation of parks, playgrounds and other city recreational facilities in Memphis, Tenn.

However, Goldberg also made a reference to schools, declaring:

"Given the extended time which has elapsed, it is far from clear that the mandate of the second Brown decision requiring that desegregation proceed with 'all deliberate speed' would today be fully satisfied by types of plans or programs for desegregation of public educational facilities which eight years ago might have been deemed sufficient."

Goldberg then went on to assert for the full court:

"Brown never contemplated that the concept of 'deliberate speed' would countenance indefinite delay in elimination of racial barriers in school, let alone other public facilities not involving the same physical problems or comparable conditions."

At another point, Goldberg declared:

"The basic guarantees of our Constitution are warrants for the here and now and, unless there is an overwhelmingly compelling reason, they are to be promptly fulfilled."

The Memphis park case, Goldberg said, presented no obvious occasion for warranted delay.

"Desegregation of parks and other recreational facilities does not present the same kinds of cognizable difficulties inherent in the elimination of racial classification in schools."

The court ruled on an appeal by 11 Negroes who said the principle of allowing time for desegregation of public schools, as fixed by the Supreme Court in 1955, should not be applied to use of public recreational facilities.

Justice Goldberg delivered the unanimous decision.

Memphis has been upheld by the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati, Ohio, in the city's stand that it could provide for gradual admission of Negroes to parks and other recreational places.

The Circuit Court, in rejecting a complaint by the 11 Negroes, cited "the past and present success of the continuing plan of desegregation now being peacefully and harmoniously worked out by the city; the unquestioned good faith of the officials of the city and its park commission."

But the Negroes argued that problems involved in school desegregation did not exist in the case of recreational facilities. They said their constitutional rights were "personal and present."

In argument of the case before the Supreme Court, the Justice Department supported the contentions of the Negroes, saying that Memphis public authorities "failed to make any case at all that delay was warranted by serious obstacles standing in the way of desegregating the city's recreational facilities."

"There is nothing about public recreational facilities," the department added, "to suggest that their desegregation would present insuperable problems."

Memphis officials contended "many administrative problems as well as other difficulties would be created by immediate and total integration of all facilities, which could be avoided by a planned, orderly system of desegregation."

Goldberg's opinion declared that constitutional rights of Negroes to use Memphis parks "are to be promptly vindicated."

The case was sent back to lower federal courts with instructions that they take "further proceeding" consistent with today's decision.

Wallace's Suit Rejected by U.S. Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court rejected today a suit by Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama to bar use of federal troops in Birmingham.

The governor asked the high tribunal to declare President Kennedy violated the Constitution by sending troops into the state for possible riot duty in Birmingham racial troubles.

Wallace said neither he nor the Alabama Legislature had asked for federal troops and contended such a first step was necessary under the Constitution. The governor asked the court also to declare unconstitutional a post-civil war statute under which the President acted, and the Constitution's 14th amendment.

The Supreme Court in a brief order said the motion to file the governor's complaint was denied.

"In essence," the high court's order said, "the papers show no more than that the President has made ready to exercise the authority conferred upon him by 10 U.S.C. Section 333 by alerting and stationing military personnel in the Birmingham area. Such purely preparatory measures and their alleged adverse general effects upon the plaintiffs (Alabama and Wallace) afford no basis for the granting of any relief."

The section referred to in the order is a post-Civil War law giving the President authority to order out troops to suppress disorders in states.

Justice White took no part in today's action. This made the court's vote 8-0.

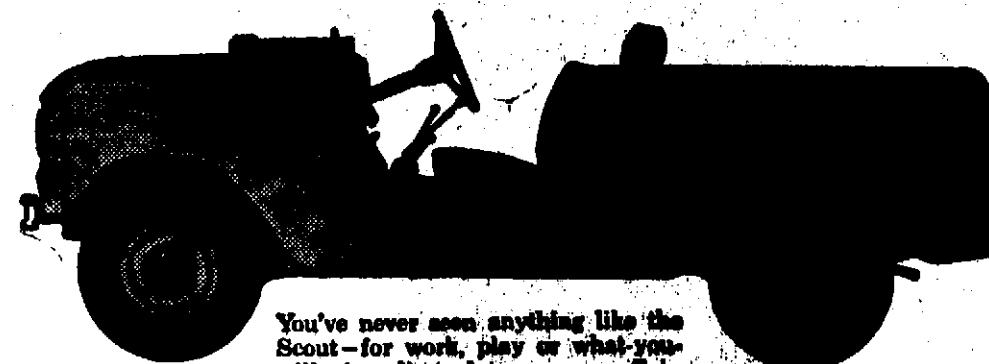

In dismissing the governor's complaint, the court made no reference to a request by Wallace that it declare the Constitution's 14th amendment invalid.

Wallace filed his suit in the Supreme Court on May 18.

A brief submitted to the high court by the governor said the President's troop order was "an exercise of personal power" and asserted Mr. Kennedy's action "if

Baltimore Is Dreaming of the Pennant

By JOE REICHLER

Associated Press Sports Writer

A long and nearly shattered dream may be realized in Baltimore, the Monumental City, where Babe Ruth was born and such old Orioles as John McGraw, Hugh Jennings and Willie Keeler flourished.

The dream of an American League pennant took on a semblance of realism today as the Orioles enjoyed a 2½ game lead over the New York Yankees.

Not since the glorious days of 1894-95-96, when Ned Hanlon's old Orioles captured three straight National League pennants, have Baltimore fans had as much to be optimistic about. Billy Hitchcock's high-flying Birds made it eight victories in a row Sunday and 13 of their last 14 by sweeping both ends of a double header from the Cleveland Indians, 10-6 and 6-1.

The Yankees couldn't even sweep last place Washington Sunday. After losing the first game 7-1, the Senators defeated the Yankees 7-6 in the nightcap to snap the Yankees' six-game winning streak and end their own eight-game losing string.

Detroit and Boston also split, the Tigers winning the first game 12-3, the Red Sox taking the nightcap 5-3. Minnesota won its seventh in a row with a 5-2 decision over the Chicago White Sox and Los Angeles topped Kansas City 6-4.

The Los Angeles Dodgers nipped San Francisco 4-3 in 10 innings to narrow the Giants' first place lead in the National League to two games. Philadelphia conquered the Cincinnati Reds twice, 10-4 and 3-0; Pittsburgh defeated Milwaukee 5-2 in 11 innings; the Chicago Cubs beat Houston 5-1; and St. Louis handed New York its seventh straight defeat, 7-4, before the Mets came back to win the second game 3-2 in 11 innings.

A pair of three-run late inning thrusts produced both Baltimore triumphs. Jim Gentile's two-run single was the key blow in the Orioles' three-run rally in the seventh inning of the opener that overcame a 6-4 Cleveland lead. Baltimore's second game rally, also in the seventh, snapped a 1-1 tie. John Powell drove in the tie-breaking run with a single and Jackie Brandt followed with a two-run triple.

Wes Stock, in relief, was credited with both victories, his fourth and fifth of the season without a defeat.

Marv Breeding's third hit, a single, scored Larry Osborne with the run that snapped a 5-5 tie and paved the way for the Senators' second game triumph, the first in five games for new manager Gil Hodges.

Eight-inning home runs by Eddie Bressoud and Gary Geiger lifted the Red Sox to a nightcap victory after the Tigers had clubbed Dave Morehead and two relievers for 14 hits in the opener. Al Kaline and Dick McAuliffe each had homers and drove in seven runs between them in the first game.

Harmon Killebrew, Zoilo Versalles and Earl Battey had home runs to make it easy for Minnesota's Jim Perry to win his third straight, at the expense of the White Sox.

Billy Moran's bases-loaded single highlighted a four-run sixth inning for the Angels who salvaged the last of a three-game series from the Athletics, Julio Navarro, in relief, notched his fourth victory without a defeat.

Dodgers Finally Nip the Front Running Giants

By JIM HACKLEMAN

Associated Press Sports Writer

Alvin O'Neal McBean is a man whose short but successful baseball career has had some very strange twists.

He hooked on with the Pittsburgh Pirates through a quick of fate. He dropped from starter status to bullpen duty this season and has built up one of the best records in the National League in the unfamiliar role of reliever. And he is finding that the home run can be a pitcher's best friend.

McBean won again Sunday as the Pirates beat Milwaukee 5-2 on bonus rookie Bob Bailey's three-run homer in the 11th inning. The victory was the slender right-hander's third in as many relief decisions—and in all three home runs have been decisive factors.

Also in the NL—the Los Angeles Dodgers nipped front-running San Francisco 4-3 in 10 innings cashing in three runs on three throw-dodgers nipped front-running San Francisco 4-3 in 10 innings cashing in three runs on three throw-dodgers nipped front-running San Francisco 4-3 in 10 innings cashing in three runs on three throw-

In the American League—high-flying Baltimore made it eight in a row by clipping Cleveland twice 10-6 and 6-1; New York and Washington split, the Yankees winning the first game 7-1, the Senators the second 7-6; Boston shaded Detroit 6-5 after being belted 12-3 by the Tigers; Minneapolis' streaking Twins downed the Chicago White Sox 5-2; and Los Angeles beat Kansas City 6-4.

McBean went in against Milwaukee in the eighth inning with the Braves leading 2-1, but Bill Mazeroski's homer in the ninth tied it up. Then in the 11th, Bailey connected against Hank Fischer, Milwaukee's sixth pitcher, after a single by Roberto Clemente and a walk.

The Dodgers salvaged the last game of their three-game set at San Francisco and moved to win in two games of the first-place Giants. Pagan's third bad throw put Jim Gilliam on second in the 10th and Tommy Davis' single scored the winning run.

Veteran slugger Roy Sievers and rookie pitcher Jack Culp keyed the Phils' sweep over the Reds. Sievers cracked a pinch hit grand slam home in the eighth inning that put the opener out of reach. Culp fired a three-hit shutout in the second game, striking out 12 and allowing only one runner as far as second base.

Two errors gave the Mets an 11th-inning run and their victory over St. Louis. Duke Carmel, defensive replacement for Stan Musial in left field, dropped Charlie Neal's fly for a two-base error, and Neal scored in when pitcher Bob Gibson threw wildly on Chico Fernandez' sacrifice bunt.

In the opener, Ken Boyer sent in the tying run in the eighth with his fifth straight hit—a single—and James followed with his clinching three-run pinch homer. The Cubs beat ex-teammate Dick Drott on Bob Buhl's ninth-inning pitching and the batting of Ron Santo, Ken Hubbs and Lou Brock.

Yanks Come Back to Win Walker Cup

By JOHN FARROW

TURNBERRY, Scotland (AP)—

The United States' leading amateur golfers, with the Walker Cup safely in hand again, turned their sights today on the British Amateur title—and the bookies' say they'll win that one, too.

The bookies, legal in England and willing to bet on anything, quickly installed the United States players as the men to beat in the Amateur at historic St. Andrews.

June 3-9 after their comeback triumph in the Walker Cup Saturday.

The United States has won the Gold Cup 18 of 19 times since it was inaugurated in 1922, but they had to overcome a 6-2 deficit to retain possession Saturday.

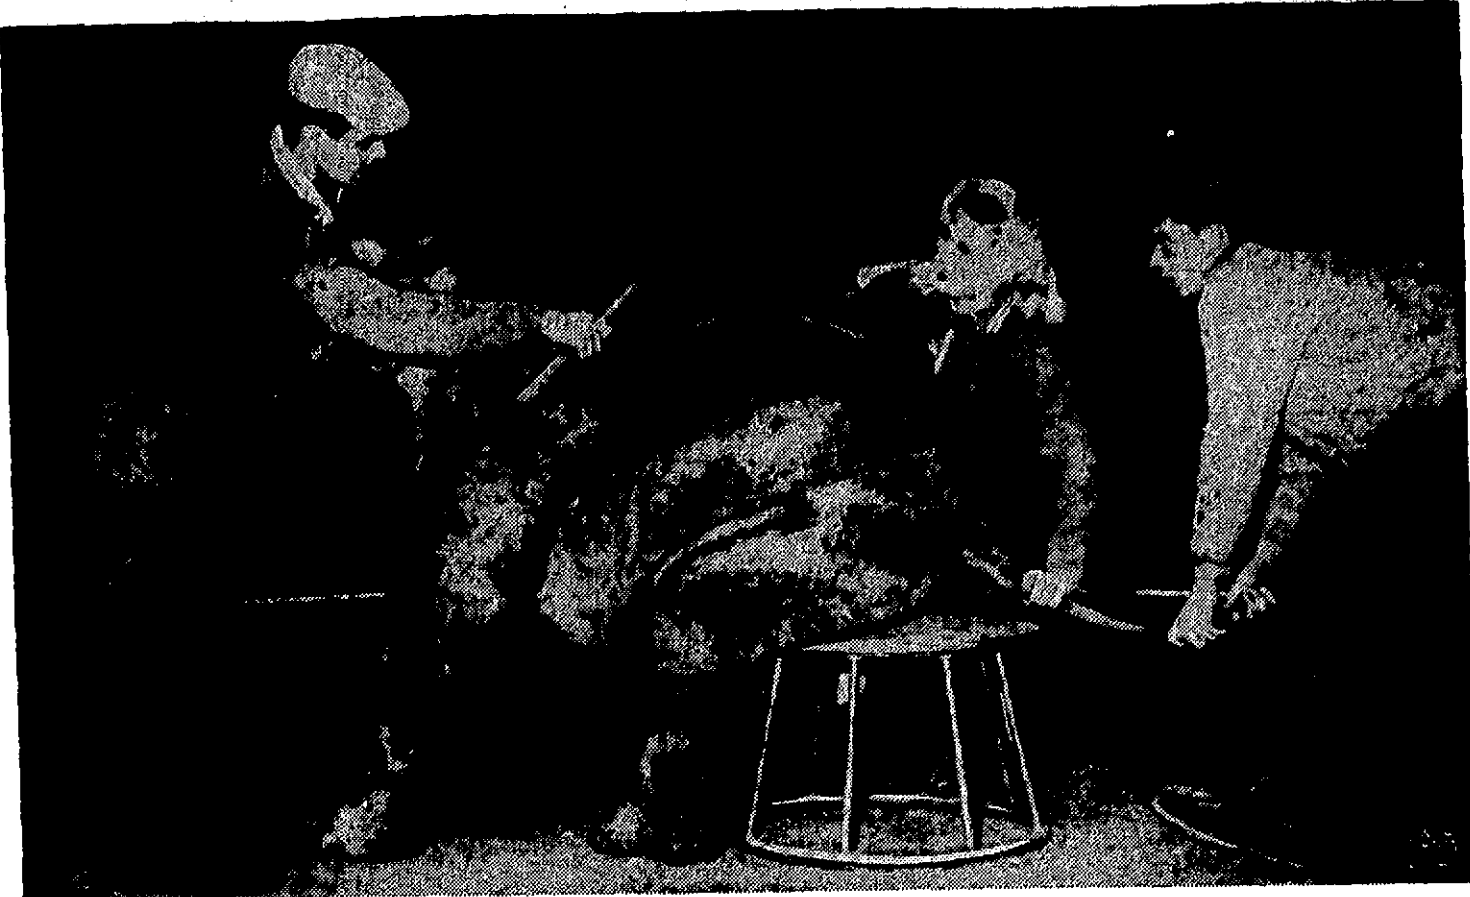

They swept the four foursomes Saturday to take the lead and nailed it down by winning five of the eight remaining singles. The Final U.S. victory margin was 12-8 with four matches halved in the two days of competition.

Much of the difference came on the 15th and 16th holes of the par 72, 7,025-yard Turnberry course. The 16th was particularly troublesome to the British. On the key foursomes, the British all landed in a creek running across the 415-yard, par-4 hole, and that's where they lost the cup.

The U.S. team scattered after the matches, but eight of the 10 are due to compete in the British Amateurs, including defending champion Richard Davies, Pasadena, Calif.

They are U.S. Amateur champion Labron Harris, Bob Gardner, Downing Gray, Billy Joe Patton, Dick Sikes, Charlie Smith and Ed Cudegraff.

Dan Beman and Charlie Coe returned to the United States on business.

The Doctor's Strange Secret

THE STORY: Dr. Howard's still has not discussed the shooting at the hospital during which he admittedly killed a man, except to say he had been blackmailed.

XIII

Of course, reported Aunt Bean, most of the town was horrified about what had happened, and bewildered that such a thing should involve Smokey. All his friends had called me, then talked to her, and had so expressed themselves. I was still somewhat choked up about this when I saw Tony and Henrietta Saputo coming out of the woods behind the house.

They said they knew they wouldn't get in by normal social approaches—"but some of us," gasped Henrietta, "just had to talk to you!"

I sighed. "I don't know much myself, Henrietta."

"But you know what happened?"

"Oh, I know that a man got into some sort of fight with Smokey at the hospital this morning—in the operating room—and that he was shot. But who started the fight, and why he was shot—I don't know any of that."

"Do you know who the man was?"

"The radio gave his name—Weber. But it didn't say who he was. It said Smokey had surrendered to the police."

"They're holding him," I said uncertainly. "I don't even know if he has a lawyer."

"Certainly he has a lawyer!" said Tony, reaching for more sugar. "Dick Hinton has been with him for a good part of today."

"Will they let him come home on bail, Tony?"

"That I don't know," he said, drinking some coffee.

"But—" I put my cup on the arm of my chair, and leaned forward. "Don't you suppose Dick could raise almost any amount needed I'd pledge my house?"

"Most of us would," said Tony calmly. "We're his friends."

Keyes seemed to look brighter at this promise, but Lovey, poor child, burst into tears. "They 'have' to let him come home!" she sobbed, when I went to her. "They can't keep our father in jail. He—he—couldn't hurt anybody! He's not a murderer! He's not!"

I pressed her face against my shoulder, and smoothed her hair, but I couldn't silence her.

Keyes sprang to his feet, and walked to the door, then he turned back, his eyes burning red. "Knock it off, will you, Lovey!" he screamed in anguish. "You're crazy to talk about such things!"

And then he too was weeping, the difficult, harsh tears of young manhood. I turned Lovey over to Tony, and I quickly followed Keyes out of the room.

"Let me alone, Jannie," he cried when I caught up with him in the dimness of the back hall. He rubbed his sleeve across his face and sniffed. I gave him my handkerchief.

"I'm sorry," said Keyes crossly, dabbing at his cheeks.

"There's no need to be sorry," I told him. "Men do cry. Strong men. When there's a cause—and need." I patted the boy's arm and stretched my hand to smooth his dark hair.

"I don't know what we'd do without you, Jannie," Keyes said. "I don't know what Smokey would do without all of us!" I told him.

After about ten minutes, Keyes said gruffly that he'd go work on the dogs, and I went back to the family room.

"Keyes is taking this thing very hard," I said in a low voice.

"He saw the whole thing," said Tony.

I stared at him, and so did Lovey. We hadn't heard that!

Even the idea of that boy's sharing whatever terrible things had gone on for Smokey—I was so distressed that I couldn't talk sensibly, and pretty soon the Saputos went home.

The evening paper came, but there wasn't much in the story that we didn't already know.

The man shot had been Ward Weber; he and his older brother, John, lived on Accomac Street; the two men were employed on construction work by the contractor who was building the college dormitories. The police had not been able to question John Weber. It was believed that he had left town that morning.

"Are you going to stay with us—until Dad gets home?" Lovey asked me.

"Yes, I'll go across and get my nightie if I need it."

She smiled at me. "We're glad you're here," she said shyly.

"Keyes," I said then, with determination. "Were you there?"

He glanced at me. He has his father's deep-set brown eyes, though his cheeks are flatter. I thought he was going to answer, but he didn't. He just shook his head. "I don't want to talk about it," he said hoarsely.

But I had my answer. He had been there.

Travelers Split With Richmond

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The Arkansas Travelers, after a mediocre weekend, open a two-game series in Little Rock against Jacksonville tonight, hoping to catch Atlanta in the next few weeks and take over the Southern Division lead in the International Baseball League.

The Travelers beat Richmond 5-4, then lost 6-4 in 13 innings and then had Sunday's game postponed because of wet grounds in weekend action.

In other games Sunday, Atlanta continued its runaway pace in the Southern Division, sweeping a doubleheader from Jacksonville 5-4 in 13 innings and 4-0 in a game halted in the fifth inning by rain; Buffalo beat Rochester 6-4 and then lost to the Red Wings 5-4; Syracuse trimmed Columbus 6-3 and Toronto whipped Indianapolis 8-3.

Ron Kabbes, who carries one of the lightest bats in the league, hit with prodigious power Sunday for Rochester. The second baseman homered in Rochester's losing effort in the first game, but his grand-slam home run made the difference in the second game.

Jacksonville relief ace Ted Abernathy yielded his first run in 33 2-3 innings when Jerry Buchek's single delivered Joe Morgan with the winning run for Atlanta in the fourth extra inning. Rookie left-hander Harvey Branch hurled his fourth shutout, a three-hitter, for Atlanta

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Halley of Little Rock announce the marriage of their daughter, Margaret Elizabeth, to Roy Lee Rowe, son of Rev. and Mrs. J. L. Rowe of Hope.

The double ring ceremony took place Saturday, May 25, 1963 at 3 o'clock in the chapel of Immanuel Baptist Church in Little Rock.

The nuptials were performed by Dr. W. O. Vaught assisted by the Rev. J. L. Rowe. Mrs. Sam Hester played the organ for the soloist, Frankie Frances.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was wearing a Chantilly lace tulle with petal point sleeves, and cut to a "v" in back set off by the chapel train. A crown of seed pearls and crystallics held her finger tip veil from her tiara. The bride carried a bouquet of pink sweetheart roses and Stephanotis.

The altar of the church was banked on each side with huckleberry lighted cathedral candles, palms and garlands of cedar. Arrangements of white gladioli and snags with blue agapanthus was seen around the altar.

Mrs. Bobby Smith, sister of the bride, Rogers, Ark. was her matron of honor and Miss Jennie Marie Rogan, DeWitt, Ark., Miss Doris Westerman, of Weiner, Ark. and Mrs. John Daniel, Little Rock, were her bridesmaids. Mrs. James Willis and children of Peru, Ind., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Garrett Willis and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Saunders.

Mrs. Helen R. Marshall attended recent graduation exercises at St. Vincent's Academy in Shreveport, La., where a new award for outstanding work in the fine arts field was named the Helen Ruffin Marshall Award in her honor.

Mrs. Ronnie Nations, Mary, and Jay returned to Kingsport, Tenn., Saturday after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shiver.

Little Rock Visitors Praise Show
There was a large official delegation from Little Rock at this year's Southwest Arkansas Poultry Festival and they were unanimous in praise for the job done by General Chairman George Frazier and his Festival Committee.

"We've been over the state and seen them all, and this is the greatest—largest crowd and the finest show," was the comment.

There are some additional notes on Saturday's event: Miss Carolyn Smith of Corning was named alternate Poultry Princess, and would go to Little Rock for the state finals in the event any of the four chosen Princesses could not.

There was a drawing on the Beauty Pageant stage for a TV set—and the little lady who held the right number turned out to be Sue Russell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Russell of Hope.

Today's Star has an unconventional page makeup because the newspaper carries 17 pictures of the Festival and allied events. The photos were made by A. H. Washburn, editor, and C. M. (Pod) Rogers, circulation manager.

Circle 5 WSCS Meets
The Circle 5, WSCS, of the First Methodist Church met Monday evening May 20, at 7:30 in the home of Mrs. Phil Manus with Mrs. Kinard Young as co-hostess.

The meeting was opened with the singing of a hymn "Blessed Assurance". The business meeting was presided over by the new president Mrs. Paul Bain, at which time she announced her committees for the coming year.

Mrs. John Pierce was presented a parting gift by the group.

Mrs. Willie Mae McIver was in charge of the program, "What Can We Tell Our Children About Suffering?" She was assisted by Mrs. Jane Still, who read the scripture.

Following the program, a dessert plate and coffee was served to 21 members.

Hope Council of Garden Clubs Meets
The Hope Council of Garden Club met on Thursday, May 23, at 10 a.m. in the home of Mrs. Mitch LaGrone.

A short business meeting was presided over by Mrs. LaGrone at which time committee reports were heard. An attendance award of $5.00 was presented to the Daffodil Club.

Following the meeting Mrs. J. C. Carlton installed the following slate of officers for 63-64. President, Mrs. Buddy Porter, 1st vice president, Mrs. B. W. Edwards, 2nd vice president, Mrs. Monty James, Secretary, Mrs. Monty James, Treasurer, Mrs. J. O. Luck, Historian, Mrs. Guy Downing, Parliamentarian, Mrs. Mitchell La Grone.

The meeting was then adjourned.

Mrs. Ronnie Nations, Mary, and Jay returned to Kingsport, Tenn., Saturday after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Shiver.

Little Rock Visitors Praise Show
There was a large official delegation from Little Rock at this year's Southwest Arkansas Poultry Festival and they were unanimous in praise for the job done by General Chairman George Frazier and his Festival Committee.

"We've been over the state and seen them all, and this is the greatest—largest crowd and the finest show," was the comment.

There are some additional notes on Saturday's event: Miss Carolyn Smith of Corning was named alternate Poultry Princess, and would go to Little Rock for the state finals in the event any of the four chosen Princesses could not.

There was a drawing on the Beauty Pageant stage for a TV set—and the little lady who held the right number turned out to be Sue Russell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Russell of Hope.

Today's Star has an unconventional page makeup because the newspaper carries 17 pictures of the Festival and allied events. The photos were made by A. H. Washburn, editor, and C. M. (Pod) Rogers, circulation manager.

Circle 5 WSCS Meets
The Circle 5, WSCS, of the First Methodist Church met Monday evening May 20, at 7:30 in the home of Mrs. Phil Manus with Mrs. Kinard Young as co-hostess.

The meeting was opened with the singing of a hymn "Blessed Assurance". The business meeting was presided over by the new president Mrs. Paul Bain, at which time she announced her committees for the coming year.

Mrs. John Pierce was presented a parting gift by the group.

Mrs. Willie Mae McIver was in charge of the program, "What Can We Tell Our Children About Suffering?" She was assisted by Mrs. Jane Still, who read the scripture.

Following the program, a dessert plate and coffee was served to 21 members.

Hope Council of Garden Clubs Meets
The Hope Council of Garden Club met on Thursday, May 23, at 10 a.m. in the home of Mrs. Mitch LaGrone.

A short business meeting was presided over by Mrs. LaGrone at which time committee reports were heard. An attendance award of $5.00 was presented to the Daffodil Club.

Following the meeting Mrs. J. C. Carlton installed the following slate of officers for 63-64. President, Mrs. Buddy Porter, 1st vice president, Mrs. B. W. Edwards, 2nd vice president, Mrs. Monty James, Secretary, Mrs. Monty James, Treasurer, Mrs. J. O. Luck, Historian, Mrs. Guy Downing, Parliamentarian, Mrs. Mitchell La Grone.

The meeting was then adjourned.

Bride to be is Honored
Miss DeLois Trece and Ray Bell were entertained with a pre-nuptial shower at the Saratoga High School gym on Tuesday night May 14th. Hostesses for the occasion were Misses Betty Fountain and Georgia Evans. After the honored guests had opened their many lovely gifts refreshments of tid-bits, cookies and cold drinks were served to 36.

Shower for Bride Elect
On Saturday night, May 11, in the home of Mrs. Esther McLain Miss DeLois Trece, bride-elect of Ray Bell, was honored with a Surprise Bridal Shower. A mock wedding was performed. The bride-elect and future bridegroom went on a treasure hunt to find their many lovely and useful gifts. After the gifts were opened and displayed, the hostesses, Mrs. McLain, Mrs. Norman Grant and Mrs. Bessie Grant served cake and coke.

DOROTHY DIX

THE PAST CASTS ITS SHADOW

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: My parents forced me to marry at 16. Of this union was born one child but I never loved its father. Because of the baby I did my best to make a home for the three of us; kept a tidy house, was a good mother and cook.

"This is your fate," I told myself. "Do the best you can."

My husband never let up on why we got married. One morning after finding me beaten half to death, my father said, "This is it. Come home and we'll help you get a divorce."

The divorce became final; I met my present husband and after a few short weeks of courtship, we married. "After six months of bliss then his family moved here from another state. The father and mother never hit it off. Resentful of our happiness, they began sniping at our marriage. Bit by bit they wore my husband down. He brooded then abruptly announced two weeks ago that he was through."

I am desolated, left with six months of the happiest memories I've ever known. He asks me to hate him. That I can't do. He was so good and kind and showed his love in so many different ways. I neither eat nor sleep and fly into a rage at my mother (my father passed on) and son for no reason at all.

Not having been trained for any type of work, my efforts to find a job are fruitless. Here I sit, half-crazed by heartbreak, still not believing that it's all over. If my husband would just come back I'd do my best to make our marriage go. If I had faults (he never mentioned them), I'll willingly admit and correct them.

I know he loved me as much as I did him. How can he change so quickly? Should I just stay home and wait? Should I try to find him and talk things over again, only to be hurt once more? Where do I go from here—Despairing?

Dear Despairing: The omission of pertinent facts in your emotionally charged letter reveals your basic problem. First of all, you fail to state what reason, if any, your husband gives for wanting to terminate your relationship. Does he actually propose divorce, or legal separation? If so, on what grounds? And how does he intend to support you? Some of these questions can best be answered with the help of a lawyer.

But before you go to a lawyer, straighten out your own thinking. And I do mean thinking. Some of the expressions you use, such as "desolated," "despairing," and "half-crazed by heartbreak," indicate that you have allowed your emotions to dominate your reason.

Adults should strive to be guided by heart and head equally, not by one overruling the other. In your case, you let emotion dominate reason. The result is that you are not the only one paying the price. Your innocent child is also suffering the consequences.

Your primary consideration right now is not your happiness but your child's. Granted, one is dependent on the other, but for its sake and yours, get on with your life. Take stock of your talents. Decide what profession you are best suited for, then prepare yourself by going to a vocational school. I am sure your mother will help care for the child. Wallowing in self-pity will accomplish nothing. Hard, cold, self-appraisal is in order. This takes courage and determination of which most people have a surprising reservoir. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "Ambition."

Dear Helen: I am 13 and want to earn money in my spare time for a special purpose. I have only $10 and need almost four times that amount. You see I have four occasions to buy presents—three birthdays and my parents' 25th anniversary. The last is the most important.

Babysitting is impossible as I am selling door-to-door. My mother would think it improper. I like animals but my mother wouldn't let one in the back yard. I am planning to major in physical therapy and child psychology. Any suggestions pertaining to them would be appreciated. —L. P.

Dear L. P.: The ways for a 13-year-old to make money are indeed limited, especially since you preclude babysitting. Is it "impossible" because there are no babies or small children in your area or because you dislike it? If the latter is the case, then how do you reconcile this feeling with your interest in child psychology? Babysitting is by far the most lucrative occupation for one of your years. If you decide to pursue it, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "Baby Sitting." The only other possible money-makers for you are dog - walking, ironing and mending by the hour, or baking and cooking especially delicious goodies that will sell at a profit.

Perhaps there is a family recipe which you might feature. Practice up; then, if your parents don't object, put an ad in this newspaper.

14 Vehicles Pile Up, 6 Persons Die

ELIZABETH, N.J. (AP) — Six persons perished early today when 14 vehicles piled up in dense fog on the New Jersey Turnpike.

Five of the victims were dead at the scene. A sixth died three hours later at St. James Hospital in Newark.

About 10 persons were injured, one of them critically. Police would not speculate on the cause of the accidents beyond blaming the fog.

One of the injured, A. J. Gauthier, 43, of Port Huron, Mich., apparently drove the last truck into the pileup.

Gauthier, driving a truckload of fish from Detroit to New York, said he never saw the wreckage in front of him.

He told newsmen he drove into a fog bank and the last thing he saw was the brake lights of another truck just before plowing into the pile. He suffered minor head and hand cuts and was released after treatment.

Those dead at the scene were identified as: Blake St. Marie, 34, of Samia, Ontario, Canada;

Charles L. Hatch, 35, of Richmond Hills, Ga.;

Ronald D. Pyle of Butler, Pa.; and

George J. Anderson, 46, of Jackson, Mich.

George F. Smith, 30, of Glen Burnie, Md., died at St. James.

The sixth victim's identity was withheld pending notification of next of kin.

Dillard Robinson, 26, of Siler City, N.C., was admitted to St. James with a compound fracture of the right leg and numerous cuts.

Two others treated and released were Solomon Bramble, 26, of Woodford, Md., and Gauthier.

The pileup occurred about 3:15 a.m. in the northbound lanes. Traffic was tied up for several hours.

Twelve trucks and two cars were involved in the smashups.

Yerger Teachers Entertained

A gala evening of Ranch Entertainment was enjoyed Saturday, May 18, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Benrie McGhee and their mother, Mrs. Polly Bolden, 10 1/2 miles south of Hope on Highway 29, by the faculty of the Yerger School System, including their husbands, wives and guests.

Upon arrival at 6:30 p.m., they were shown around the spacious grounds by the host and hostess and were favorably impressed by the cattle, swine, poultry, garden and the well lighted lawn.

They were then invited to the house, which was attractively decorated with spring flowers. Games of various kinds were played while soft music filled the air continuously.

The menu for the buffet dinner was: barbecued pork and goat, fried fish, relishes, salad, white bread, olives, pickled peaches, ice cream, cake, and soft drinks. The hostess was assisted by Mrs. Earnestine Carter.

The guests were Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Carmichael, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. McQuerry, Mr. and Mrs. Bill V. Rutherford, Mr. and Mrs. George Straughter, and Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Twillie; Misses L. J. Babb, R. F. ## Wallace's Suit tolerated by this court would in effect create a military dictatorship."

A reply brief by the Justice Department asked the court to reject Wallace's suit as being without legal foundation.

The President has statutory and constitutional authority to send troops into action as he sees fit and without waiting for a request from a state, the department brief said.

A federal court ruling is due today or Tuesday on Negro efforts to desegregate schools in Birmingham, largest city in Alabama and focal point of racial unrest for weeks.

U.S. Dist. Judge Seybourne H. Lynne said Sunday he will announce his decision by Tuesday. It will be the fifth court ruling within a week on Birmingham issues.

It will come just three weeks before two Negroes, backed by orders of another federal judge, plan to present themselves for admission into white units of the University of Alabama system—one at the main university campus at Tuscaloosa, the other at a branch at Huntsville.

Gov. George C. Wallace has vowed a stand-in-the-door policy to maintain segregation in Alabama's schools. He has said he will be on hand personally to block admission of a Negro at the university for the term beginning June 10.

Two suits are involved in the public school litigation before Lynne. The first, filed in 1960, attacks Alabama's pupil placement law, which has been upheld on its face by the U.S. Supreme Court. The law gives local school boards broad authority in assigning pupils to schools.

The second, filed last year, seeks an injunction wiping out the entire segregation system in Birmingham schools. Both are class actions, which means they seek relief on behalf of all Negroes.

Negro leaders planned a meeting during the day in outwardly calm Birmingham.

About 500 riot-trained federal soldiers have been pulled out of a Montgomery base, 90 miles south of Birmingham, but 2,500 federal troops remain at Anniston, 60 miles east.

The troops were sent to Alabama by President Kennedy after May 12 bombings and rioting in Birmingham.

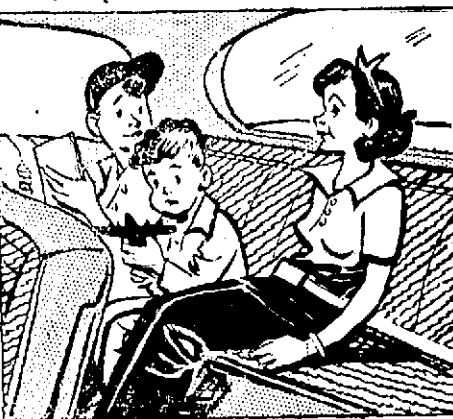

In developments elsewhere: —The University of Mississippi's only Negro student, James H. Meredith, said in Washington that he had detected little change in white student's attitudes toward him. He said this will continue "so long as this issue between

Hints for Happy Holidays (2) Rules of the Road

Before starting on your trip, be sure the car and its passengers are ready and in good condition. Install seat belts—and use them! Check gas, oil, tires, brakes, lights, horn, engine, radiator, muffler, steering, fan belt, windshield wipers and defroster. Carry a first-aid book and kit, plus a flashlight—and, of course, spare tire and jack.

Make children ride in the back seat and enforce rule that there will be no hands out window, on door handles, wheel, ignition key, lights or driver. (For extra insurance, install—and use—safety door latches.) Keep kids occupied with games and toys.

Alternate drivers, if possible, and stop traveling while it's still daylight—and before the driver is tired or drowsy.

CHECKLIST

- ✓ Before starting, make sure everyone is in good health—including the car.
- ✓ Be sure to use seat belts—in front and rear seats.
- ✓ Teach children safe riding rules—and enforce them.
- ✓ Keep children busy with safe toys and games.
- ✓ Don't try to drive too far in a day.
- ✓ Stop and rest several times a day. Stop for the night before it gets dark or you get tired.

One Most Recognizable and Least Known Things in Life Today Is American Flag

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the most recognizable and least known things in our life today is the American flag.

We get an automatic lift of heart whenever we see that banner in the sky take each passing breeze in grandeur. Our inborn patriotism seizes us by the throat, particularly if a band is passing by with drums beating and bugles blowing.

But who can sit down and describe it?

Very few of us.

Let us consider a few questions about it.

If you ask the average American what are the colors in his flag, he will immediately reply, "red, white and blue"—and look at you as if you were impertinent.

If you ask him what are the colors of the stripes, he will reply "red and white."

If you ask him how many stripes there are, after a dutiful search of his grammar school history memories, he'll reply "thirteen—one for each of the original colonies."

So far, so good. Now ask him, "how many red stripes are there, and how many white stripes?"

After a long and doubtful mental consultation with himself, he may—eight out of ten—come up with the correct answer—seven red stripes, six white stripes.

Well, you say, if the stripes are red and white, what color are the stars? The chances are that he will answer, without thinking, that the stars are blue.

If you point out that the stars are actually white against a blue background, he will begin to get mad.

Then, if you inquire how many stars there are in the flag, he'll begin to think you are making a fool of him. But his answer may be 48, 49 or 50.

American flag as it is to feel its starry fingers wave in certainty above us all.

Group Trying to Push 3 Amendments

EDITOR'S NOTE—Chief Justice Earl Warren has called for a great national debate on three proposed constitutional amendments that have quietly slipped through 16 state legislatures. One of these amendments would change the way of amending the Constitution. In this second of three articles, Associated Press staff writer Stanley Meisler analyzes this amendment and looks at the rough road ahead for all three proposals.

By STANLEY MEISLER
WASHINGTON (AP)—States rights quietly trying to push three new amendments into the U.S. Constitution have a long, rocky, weaving road ahead.

Without fanfare, the legislatures of 16 states have approved resolutions asking Congress to call a national convention to consider these amendments aimed at curtailing the powers of the federal government.

But the states vary in their likes and dislikes, and not all 16 have voted for the same amendments. Only one amendment so far has attracted as many as 12 states. The states rights need at least 34 states to take long first step on the rough constitutional road.

The road would be eased in the future if one of these amendments does become a part of the Constitution some day. This amendment would change the way of amending the Constitution.

But the supporters of the amendments now have to follow one of the routes outlined in the present Constitution. All these routes are rough, and the states rights have picked the roughest. It is so rough, in fact, that it never has been followed successfully before.

The three proposed amendments would:

1. Make it possible for the states to propose and ratify constitutional amendments completely on their own.
  2. Wipe out federal jurisdiction over the apportionment of seats in the state legislatures.
  3. Make it possible for certain decisions of the U.S. Supreme Court to be overruled by a states controlled "Court of the Union."
- Of late, these amendments have provoked a chorus of opposition that includes President Kennedy, Republican Gov. George Romney of Michigan and senators from both the Democratic and Republican parties. Chief Justice Earl Warren has called for a great national debate.

But, so far, there has not been a great debate. Most advocates of these amendments have failed to stand up and reply to the critics. Instead, they have continued their quiet drive to push the amendments through the legislatures.

By the route used, states rights first must line up 34 states—two-thirds of the 50—for each of the amendments. If they succeed, Congress, under the Constitution, would have to call a convention to consider the amendments.

In any case, under the Constitution, amendments approved by this convention would be submitted to the states for ratification. If 38 state legislatures or state conventions—three-fourths of the 50—ratified the amendments, they would become part of the U.S. Constitution.

The 23 amendments now in the Constitution were approved by a less complicated method: they were proposed by a two-thirds vote in Congress and then ratified by three-fourths of the states.

States rights have not overlooked this more usual, less complicated way. The proposed amendments have been introduced in the House and Senate.

But so far they have gotten nowhere, and supporters of the amendments have their hopes pinned on the state legislatures.

Now let us see how much simpler all this would be if the states rights had their way and their first proposed amendment was accepted.

Under it, a constitutional amendment could be approved if proposed by two-thirds of the state legislatures and then ratified by three-fourths of the legislatures.

The whole idea of a national convention would be eliminated, though Congress, by a two-thirds vote, still would have the power to propose amendments.

Those who favor this amendment see it simply as an easier way for the states to get their point of view into the U.S. Constitution.

But the opponents disapprove of the amendment because it leaves open the possibility of an amendment becoming part of the U.S. Constitution without any national deliberation—either by Congress or by a national convention.

Next: A look at the two amendments aimed at the U.S. Supreme Court.

Accused Man Transferred to Cummins

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—James Dean Walker, 22, charged with first degree murder in the fatal shooting of a North Little Rock policeman, has been transferred from the Cummins Prison Farm infirmary to the Pulaski County Jail at Little Rock.

The transfer was undertaken Thursday afternoon as quietly as was his move from a Little Rock hospital to the prison farm last month.

Walker was under a police guard at the hospital, where he was recovering from bullet wounds suffered in a gunfight in which Patrolman Jerrell Vaughan was killed.

Walker was moved from the hospital after night admissions clerk William Bonds was kidnapped and tortured by three persons attempting to get Walker's room number.

Charged in the kidnapping are James Burton Ing, professional boxer Richard Tyler Lane and Lane's wife, Cecile Mae Lane.

Ing now is serving a 5-year term for burglary and assault in Nevada. Lane is awaiting extradition in Sacramento, Calif., and Lane's wife is still at large.
